Because the gentle whisper of comrades and new acquaintances to "have ears than the hoarse warning shriek of the transport's whistle, a number of soldiers from the Thomas missed connections with the big troopship and by the time they arrived at the Naval dock she was well on her way out to the Philippines. Others had a narrow escape from being left behind.

The sailing time of the transport was changed from 5 o'clock yesterday afternson to 3 o'clock, which apparently caused some misunderstanding. A delay of fifteen minutes was caused by the non-appearance at 3 o'clock of the pilot, who had not been apprised of the change, but the troopship cast off her lines exactly at 3:15 and slid out of her berth, the Twelfth Regiment band playing on her deck and the Hawaian band musically bidding her goodbye on the wharf.

The venders of leis did a land-office business before the sailing of the transport and there was a large number of people down to see the steamship

Just after she had swung out into a big doughboy under tow of a wiry little native boatman came hurrying down that wharf with all the grace and speed of a muley cow chasing a small dog. He had dallied too long somewhere uptown. The boatman bundled him into a boat and rapidly jerked him out, to climb aboard amid the jeers of his comrades.

The transport was clear outside when a party of half a dozen more soldiers wandered idly onto the wharf, then stared blankly at the empty space where they had expected to see the troopship. Apparently possessed of the belief that they could catch the vessel if they ran fast enough, they commenced sprinting up the street in the direction the Thomas had gone. They were called back, however, before they got out of sight and bundled into a launch under the direction of Captain Falls. Several others appeared just in time and nine in all were sent cut to

However, when it was found how many men had been left behind, the transport anchored outside and sent her boats ashore to pick up the stragglers. It is believed that all who belonged buys from the middlemaThere is aboard were collected and taken out for attempting to take from Sheriff before the vessel finally sailed.

Roma Did Not Sail.

The oil steamship Roma which was scheduled to sail for Port Harford yesterday afternoon did not finish discharging cargo in time to get away. She will probably sail this morning and her berth at the Railroad wharf will be taken by the bark Fullerton, which has been waiting since her arrival yesterday morning for a chance to begin unloading.

Claudine Arrives.

The Inter-Island steamer Claudine came in early yesterday morning from her regular run, bringing passengers and freight from Hawaii and Maui ports. Her freight included 4250 bags of sugar, ninety-five bags of potatoes, fifty-eight bags of corn, twenty-five head of cattle, twenty-one calves sixty-one hogs.

Officials on Hall.

The steamer W. G. Hall sailed at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon for Kauai. Among her passengers were United States District Attorney R. W. Breckons and United States Marshal E. R. Hendry, who went to Kauai on a secret official mission about which they were very chary of talking.

NO TROUBLE AT WAIMANALU

just one more" sounded londer in their Men Continue at Work Under Protection of Honolulu Police.

There are no signs of trouble at Waimagalo and work on the plantation is moving along as though nothing had happened. The nine police officers whom Sheriff Jarrett ordered to remain on duty until all danger of trouble should have passed, are still at the plantation, but there has been no call for their services. They will probably return to Honolulu today or tomorrow. Secretary W. O. Smith, of the Planters' Association, said yesterday afternoon that, as far as he knew, everything was quiet. Deputy Attorney General Kinney stated that, having no advices to the contrary, he supposed that things were moving along quietly.

Manager Ross, of Honolulu plantation, when called up over the telephone the stream and was fairly under way, last night, said that all was quiet at

It is generally believed that the prompt action of Sheriff Jarrett has convinced the troublemakers that they can not break the law with impunity, and that there will be no more overt acts. Reports from Waimanalo indicate that all that the Japanese laborers there want is the assurance that they will receive protection from the instigators of riot.

Rioters Plead Guilty.

The Waimanalo Japanese, who so beat up Hiroshimi, the laborer who tried to go to work at the plantation on Sunday, and who were arrested by Sheriff Jarrett after a struggle in which he was surrounded and driven into the plantation house with his prisoners, made no attempt to fight the case against them. The five appeared before Judge Andrade yesterday morning and all pleaded guilty. Doi, the ringleader, was given a sentence of six months; Asami, Komori, Fukui and Tamura got off with five months each. The seven others, who were arrested and charged with interfering with an officer in the discharge of his duty, Jarrett his prisoners, also appeared before the Magistrate and, by their attorney, Lightfoot, entered pleas of not guilty. The case against them went over until this morning. The evidence in the case will probably be heard to-day. It is understood that a vigorous effort will be made by Lightfoot and the Higher Wage Association to get them clear. Lightfoot did not appear for the five who were charged with asbest plan was to take their medicine and not run chances of being indicated by the grand jury for some more serious offense.

ESCAPE FROM DEATH

M. F. Scott had a narrow escape from death in the City Hall Wednesday afternoon, coming within an inch or less of being crushed by a safe weighing about a ton and a half, that got loose on the stairs and fell. The safe belongs to the road departnent and was being moved into the The Mohican was shifted yesterday building. It was being taken up to morning from Brewer's wharf to her the second floor when Scott started old anchorage, on the far side of the down. He tried to pass between the channel. The barkentine Irmgard has been ten by when the rope, by which the shifted from the Bishop wharf to the big piece of steel and iron was being oot of Fort street.

The schooner Balboa sailed from ately started down, crashing into the was the margin that his coat was caught between the safe and the iron rail.
